

Check out the code!

Now that you've explored the data, and seen how the code can be modified from a binary class classifier to a multi class one, let's take a look at the notebook that implements that for us!