Exploring the solution

Now you've gone through the code to define the neural network, train it with on-disk images, and then predict values for new images. Let's see this in action in a workbook. In the next video, Laurence will step you through the workbook, and afterwards, you can try it for yourself!